Smoke, your tool for a cleaner environment and increased security

Military Uses

Our smoke products have played an important role for a number of Defence Forces world wide in connection with internal environment tests and even in military exercises, for example:

- the superstructure of tanks and warships must provide complete protection against the smallest particles whether wet or dry.
- barracks and storerooms must provide sound inner environments for protection and comfort.

During exercises our smoke can indicate improperly fitted gas masks without unnecessary health risks for the participants. Our perfumed smoke functions as a tracking gas with the help of your nose, it immediately reveals leakages.

Special Effects and Hobbies

Our products are used even in electrical model planes for an effect that was earlier only possible with petrol-burning motors. You can even create coloured ribbons of smoke in the colour combinations of your choice.

Golf and hunting are just two examples of outdoor activities in which checking the wind direction can be decisive for a successful result.

Our line of products satisfies most needs for creating a complete illusion of foggy woods, a house or car on fire and much more for use in the film industry.
